Resolved, that the Transmissouri DryFarming congress favor the establishment by State legislative action of experimental farms for the scientific study of farming without irrigation, such stations to be under the direction of the respective State experiment stations, and wherever prac-ticable to be in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture.

Enlarging Homestead Area.

Resolved, that the executive committee of the Transmissouri Dry-Farming congress be requested to give careful consideration to the questlen of enlargement of homestead area, and also to the question of some practicable plans looking toward the final disposition of the purely grazing public lands and report the result of their deliberations to the next meeting of this congress.

Resolved that we urge the United States Congress to pass legislation providing for 320-acre homesteads, as provided for by Senator Smoot's bill in the House, or other legislation which will bring our public lands into private ownership in a manner which will increase our number of homes and area of cultivafed farms.

Surveying Unsurveyed Lands.

Resolved, that whereas, in certain localities in the Western States there yet remains unsurveyed, large areas of lands which are said and semi-arid, which are desirable for homestead purposes; we therefore recommend that such lands be promptly surveyed in order that settlement may be effected thereon, and uncertainty of title be thus removed from the minds of those desiring occupancy of said land.

Irrigation Investigation.

Such is the importance of home-building upon the arid farms to more fully insure the permanency and highest development of this form of agriculture, and realizing that water for domestic purposes and a limited supply for the irrigation of a small orchard and garden is a prime essentiality to successful hame-building; therefore be it Resolved, by this, the second session of the Transmissouri Dry-Farming congress, in open sesion, that we indorse the work of the irrigation investigations of the office of experiment stations of the United States Department of Agriculture, in collecting and making public, practical information for the utilization of a limited water supply by means of winter irrigation, small storage reservoirs, windmills and pumping plants.

"My Experience as a Dry Farmer" was detailed by George L. Farrell, a pioneer farmer of Smithfield, Cache county. Mr Farrell began dry farming on the west side of Cache valley forty-four years ago. His neighbors said he was going daft, and after losing three crops in succession, he almost became convinced that he was daft. However, he tried again, and from that became convinced that he was daft. However, he tried again, and from that time he has had remarkable success. In seeding he uses but thirty-five to forty pounds of wheat to the acre and the best results are obtained. Light sowing of other grain was advocated by Mr. Farrell, and he cited results which verified his theory. Mr. Farrell was plied with questions as to various methods used by him. At the afternoon session he confuded his address.

Professor Chilcott advocated the readultion of the resolution of the resolution of the same.

Fred Keisel of Ogden, who made his first appearance in the congress, moved that the programme be proceeded with and that Mr Farrell of Cache county be allowed to continue his remarks. Mr. Tower of Wyoming objected to this and moved that the reports of the executive committee and resolutions committee be heard as many of the delegates hed be heard as many of the delegates had to leave for home on early trains. This was agreed to and the programme was proceeded with.
